

Thursdays at The Graduate Club

Come join us for a great lunch and great companionship!

We are in December and our final luncheon for the year is coming up soon. Hope you can come, and please feel free to bring a friend.

There is a lot we can talk about. We are through the election and we are beginning to see how the Republican controlled Congress and the President are going to interact with each other for the next year or two. The recent plummeting price of oil is likely to have world-wide repercussions, negative for some, positive for others. On the positive side, American consumers are likely to have more money in their pockets to spend for Christmas. This should be good for the US economy. We always enjoy the stimulation of our conversations with everybody adding their thoughtful views.

So we can be sure to answer your questions and talk about what you are interested in; our luncheon is limited to 10 guests.
